

EDUCATION IN BUTLER COUNTY, OHIO

Twelve Fortune 500 companies and seven Fortune 1000 businesses are headquartered in the Cincinnati - Dayton Region.

In the Cincinnati -Dayton region, 51% of the population 25 and older has either some college, an associate degree, a bachelor's degree, or a graduate or professional degree.

There are 840,000 students enrolled at more than 250 colleges and universities within a 200-mile radius of Butler County that add more than 140,000 young professionals to the workforce each year. Twenty-four colleges and universities, six branch campuses, and seven community colleges with career and technical curriculums are located in the Cincinnati - Dayton region.

These included the Air Force Institute of Technology, Miami University, the University of Dayton, Xavier University, the University of Cincinnati, Northern Kentucky University, and Great Oaks Institute of Technology and Butler Tech, the two largest career technical education schools in the State of Ohio. In addition, Cincinnati and Dayton each have their own medical and law schools.

Twenty-five institutions of higher learning are located within a 90- mile radius of Butler County and are easily accessible via interstate highway. These colleges and universities generate well-prepared workers, create vibrant communities, and contribute to advanced-technology development through their curricula and research in areas such as: aerospace, manufacturing, information systems, environmental sciences, biomedicine, electro-optics, economics, and management development.

